

Research Perspectives

R. PATRICK SOLOMON 953

Exploring Cross-Race Dyad Partnerships in Learning to Teach

This article examines preservice teacher education and the benefits and challenges of cross-race dyad partnerships in field-based practica.

ANGELA V. PACCIONE 980

Developing a Commitment to Multicultural Education

Based on surveys and interviews with educators who described the life experiences that led them to become committed to multicultural education, this study suggests a developmental model that contributes to the development of this commitment.

ARNETHA F. BALL 1006

Empowering Pedagogies That Enhance the Learning of Multicultural Students

The author conducted research over a three-year period to investigate the discourse patterns of three African American female teachers in community-based organizations and provides insights on successful pedagogies that might inform teaching practices within more traditional school settings.

Practice Perspectives

- 1035 JENNIFER E. OBIDAH
Mediating Boundaries of Race, Class, and Professorial
Authority as a Critical Multiculturalist
In examining the challenges of teaching multicultural education, the author critiques some of the underlying assumptions of the discipline and advocates for this type of critical reflection by multicultural educators.

- 1061 DIANE J. GOODMAN
Motivating People from Privileged Groups to Support Social Justice
This article explores what may motivate people from privileged groups to support social justice and provides educational strategies that address these different sources of motivation.

- 1086 BARBARA WALLACE
A Call for Change in Multicultural Training at Graduate Schools of Education: Educating to End Oppression and for Social Justice
This article advocates multicultural training at graduate schools of education to prepare educators to work effectively within our increasingly diverse society.

● DEPARTMENTS

- 949 FOR THE RECORD
Looking at Self as the Critical Element for Change in Multicultural Education: Pushing at the Seams of Theory, Research, and Practice—Part II
- 1112 OFF THE RECORD
Raising Up White Boys?
- 1115 INDEX FOR VOLUME 102