SUBMISSION OF MANUSCRIPTS TO ECONOMETRICA

1. Five stapled copies of the original manuscript should be sent to:
   Professor Glenn Ellison
   Editor, Econometrica
   Dept. of Economics, Massachusetts Institute of Technology
   50 Memorial Drive, E52-274B
   Cambridge, MA 02142, U.S.A.

   They must be accompanied by a letter of submission and be written in either French or English. If authors also include a PDF version of the paper on a diskette, the review process may be expedited. It is a condition of publication in Econometrica that copyright of any published article be transferred to the Econometric Society. Submission of a paper will be taken to imply that the author agrees that copyright of the material will be transferred to the Econometric Society if and when the article is accepted for publication, and that the contents of the paper represent original and unpublished work that has not been submitted for publication elsewhere. If the author has submitted related work elsewhere, or does so during the term in which Econometrica is considering the manuscript, then it is the author’s responsibility to provide Econometrica with details. There is neither a submission charge nor page fee; nor is any payment made to the authors.

2. Papers may be rejected, returned for specified revision, or accepted. Currently, a paper will appear approximately nine months from date of acceptance. In 1999, 89% of new submissions were reviewed in six months or less.

3. All submitted manuscripts should be typed on bond paper of standard size, preferably 8.5 by 11 inches, and should have margins of at least one inch on all sides. Double space all material in the manuscript, including captions, headnote, footnotes, references, and so forth. Please submit only high-quality reproductions (not ditto, thermofax, or verifax).

4. Specific instructions on the form in which to prepare the manuscript can be found in the “Manual for Econometrica Authors, Revised” written by Drew Fudenberg and Dorothy Hodges, published in the July, 1997 issue of Econometrica and posted on the web at http://www.econometricssociety.org/es/manual/index.html. The Manual describes how footnotes, diagrams, tables, etc. should be prepared. In addition, it explains editorial policy regarding style and standards of craftsmanship. It will facilitate the submission and review process for both the author and referees if all submitted manuscripts conform as closely as possible to these guidelines.

5. Papers should be accompanied by an abstract that is full enough to convey the main results of the paper. On the same sheet as the abstract should appear the title of the paper, the name(s) and full address(es) of the author(s), and a list of keywords.

6. If you plan to submit a comment on an article that has appeared in Econometrica, please follow these guidelines: First send a copy to the author and explain that you are considering submitting the comment to Econometrica. Second, when you submit your comment, please include any response that you have received from the author. Comments on published articles will be considered only if they state you have been through this process. If an author does not respond to your letter after a reasonable amount of time, then this should be explained in your submission. Authors will be invited to submit for consideration a reply to any accepted comment of this kind.

8. Econometric Society business to be published in Econometrica as an Announcement, Report, etc. should be submitted to the Econometric Society Secretary, Julie Gordon (address on inside back cover). Announcements of academic conferences, workshops, etc., conducted by other societies or organizations, the availability of fellowships, postdoctorates, etc., and honorary awards for publication in the News Notes section of the journal should be sent to the Editor, Glenn Ellison (address above). Deadlines for all such endmatter are the fifteenth day of the fourth month prior to publication, i.e., September 15 for the January issue, November 15 for the March issue, etc. Please refer to the “Manual for Econometrica Authors, Revised,” by Drew Fudenberg and Dorothy Hodges, published in the July, 1997 issue for further information on format and content.
