

Announcing new Editor in Chief from 2010

As of January 2010, American Journal of Reproductive Immunology will be edited by:

Gil G. Mor, M.D., Ph.D.

Associate Professor, Yale University School of Medicine

Dept. of Obstetrics and Gynaecology

Director Reproductive Immunology Unit and Translational Research Program: Discovery To Cure

Expanding the Scope of the Journal

In addition to topics in Reproductive Immunology we are expanding the scope of the journal to areas of Tumor Immunology, Autoimmunity, Sexually transmitted disease, and Endocrine-Immune interactions, within the scope of Reproduction, clinical case reports on Reproductive Immunology related subjects. In addition to the Report/Research papers, authors are invited to submit Methodological Reports, Commentaries, Reviews, and news and views editorials.

Special Submission

The AJRI has recognized that because of the uniqueness of the field, many excellent papers have been erroneously rejected by other journals. Therefore, we will provide a fast track review process to papers that have been reviewed by journals such as Nature Immunology, Journal of Immunology, JCI, JEM, Cell Immunology and others. The authors are encouraged to enclose the reviewers' and/or editorial comments from the above mentioned journals and a response to the comments. The article will be reviewed by the Editorial office and it is possible the article might be accepted based on its previous review. This may allow the urgent and competitive research of high quality to be accepted for publication on the day of submission.

Regional Editorial Office

In order to facilitate the review process and promote the international nature of the journal, we will establish several regional Editorial Offices. Authors will be invited to select their regional Editor who will process the review of their manuscripts.