Freud Meets Jung: A Centenary Celebration is a conference to mark the first meeting between Freud and Jung in Vienna in 1907. The conference is a historic event jointly organised by The British Psychoanalytical Society, The Society of Analytical Psychology and The Journal of Analytical Psychology. Speakers and Chairs from all three organisations are coming together to celebrate this important moment in the history of psychoanalysis and to explore similarities and differences in their current approaches to the conference theme of Sexuality: Hystera or Complex?

REGISTRATION FEE: £85
