New Associate Editor(s) for JMS

The Journal of Management Studies is seeking an Associate Editor to join Timothy Clark, Steven W Floyd and Mike Wright. The journal is governed by the Society for the Advancement of Management Studies (SAMS). The term of office is for three years in the first instance with an option for a further three, with the possibility of being considered for the post of general editor when the current general editors have served their terms of office. The post carries a generous honorarium and all necessary travel expenses will be covered.

The journal was established in 1963 as one of the first general management journals outside the United States to publish innovative, novel and high-quality papers that advance conceptual and empirical knowledge and address practice in the area of management. It is one of the leading management journals in the world.

Specific qualifications include the following:

- Significant scholarly contributions in management studies, in one or more of the main areas that the journal covers, particularly in the areas of HRM, organizational behaviour and industrial organizational psychology.
- Extensive experience as a reviewer for management journals
- Demonstrated administrative skills, capacity to handle a demanding workload and meet deadlines. Must also work constructively with authors, reviewers and the editorial team.

To discuss informally the nature of the editorial task, and the support that the Society gives to editors in recognition of the time they devote to the Journal, please contact Jo Brudenell, Editorial Manager, Journal of Management Studies, Durham Business School, Durham, DH1 3LB.
