

Call for Papers for a Special Issue on TRANSPORT
November 2010
Deadline for submission: April 15, 2010.

Natural Resources Forum—A United Nations Sustainable Development Journal, a quarterly journal issued by the Division for Sustainable Development of the United Nations calls for papers for a special issue on transport, to be published in November 2010.

Articles submitted for this special section should be relevant to policy-making, and should address transport from a sustainable development perspective, i.e. treating economic, social, and environmental aspects in an integrated way. Angles of interest can include:

- Global and regional trends in transport and implications for climate change and sustainable development;
- Sub-sector focuses (e.g. airline transport, maritime transport) on trends and implications for climate change and sustainability;
- Impacts of international policies and links with other issues such as trade, environment, agriculture, etc.;
- Sustainability impacts of national transport policies, regulations and incentives;
- Trends and innovation, profitability, barriers to development and large-scale implementation of clean and alternative transport technologies;
- Integrated planning for sustainable cities, including modal shifts
- Rural and urban transport, poverty, and MDGs;
- Case studies on sustainable transport at the city or national level.

Articles should contain original material and should be between 6,000 and 8,000 words in length.

Contributions to the journal are accepted at the NRFs manuscript submission site at <http://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/nrf>.
