Political Insight is the brand new magazine from the Political Studies Association of the United Kingdom and Wiley-Blackwell that will provide a window to the world on all aspects of research in politics.

Published three times a year, this full-colour magazine is written for everyone with an interest in politics. International both in the scope of issues it covers and in the sources it draws from, Political Insight aims to present research into politics and international studies to a broad audience in an entertaining and engaging way.

The magazine includes articles on a wide variety of topics such as human rights, the causes of terrorism, recent innovations in policy-making across the advanced industrial world, the impact of globalisation on politics and society, the changing nature of democracy, and much more.

Issues of Political Insight will contain a variety of sections and articles:

- Features - authoritative, in-depth articles on a wide range of political topics written in an engaging, accessible style by leading experts
- In the News - short, topical items on the issues heading political agendas around the world
- Foresight - will there be a deal on climate change? Or a resolution in the Middle East? Each issue, an expert looks at future developments in a key political area
- Debate - two experts take opposing standpoints on a current topic
- Author meets Critics - an author of a prominent book debates with critics
- From the Frontline - leading journalists report from political hotspots around the world
- Country Focus - in-depth analysis of the national politics of a country making the news
- Controversies - platform for discussing unorthodox ideas, approaches and techniques
- Impact - reviews of significant new research on politics and international studies
- Methods - experts consider the pros and cons of different research techniques and approaches

Features will include – Can Labour Win?

Who will be the next PM? Will there be a hung parliament? Paul Whiteley forecasts the upcoming general election - and comes up with some unexpected results.

Plus Ça Change - American Foreign Policy under Obama

Barack Obama's election seemed to herald a new dawn in US politics, but has the superpower's foreign policy really changed since the Bush years? Inderjeet Parmar investigates.

New World Order: The Aftermath of the Financial Crisis

Andrew Gamble takes a look at the worldwide implications of the recent credit crunch.

The Longevity Revolution

Life expectancy has been increasing since 1840 – and this looks set to continue. John Benyon looks at the challenges and opportunities of our ageing society.

Debate

Shifting Sovereignties

Vernon Bogdanor and Iain McLean take opposing sides of the house for the motion 'Should the United Kingdom have an elected upper house and head of state?'

Foresight

What hope for global tax justice?

Developing countries pay the largest humanitarian price for tax evasion. The time has come for greater international cooperation on tax, argue David McNair and Dries Lesage.

Country Focus

South Africa

Ahead of this summer's World Cup, Allison Drew profiles the turbulent politics of host nation South Africa.

From the Frontline

Insurgent Pakistan

Muhammad Idrees Ahmad reports from Peshawar, where Pakistan's frontier insurgency threatens to further destabilise an already volatile region.
