

Applications are invited for the position of Co-Editor of

Veterinary and Comparative Oncology

Veterinary and Comparative Oncology is an international, quarterly, peer-reviewed journal integrating clinical and scientific information for all veterinarians and scientists concerned with aetiology, diagnosis and clinical course of cancer in domestic animals and its prevention. The Journal publishes original articles, as well as other scientific and educational information on all aspects of veterinary oncology, from the application of new laboratory technology to cancer prevention, detection, diagnosis and cure.

The successful candidate will be based outside the UK (preferably North America) and have extensive experience in research and publishing in academic journals. The main functions within this role are: Strategic Management, Editorial Team Management, Manuscript Management and Journal Promotion. The post involves working closely with the editorial board, co-editor and the publisher.

The ideal person must possess the following skills:

- ❖ PhD OR 10 years research experience with good track record of academic publications
- ❖ Excellent written and verbal communication
- ❖ Sound scientific judgement
- ❖ Leadership qualities
- ❖ Excellent knowledge of research frontiers in veterinary oncology (internationally)
- ❖ Ability to work to tight deadlines.
- ❖ Commercial awareness (marketing and advertising)

The ideal candidate will be recognised internationally for his or her academic publications, and have an impressive track record of academic output. Applicants should note that this position requires a number of hours work each week with the possibility of additional days required for meetings and conferences. In light of this a modest honorarium is granted, as well as an allowance for expenses.

The current editor is intending to step down in early 2012, so the new editor would be in place by 1 March 2012.

Applications should include a curriculum vitae, a short assessment of the strengths and weaknesses of Veterinary and Comparative Oncology nationally and internationally, and an outline of your vision for this Journal and how you would like to see it develop in the future.

Please send these, in confidence, to:

Martin Tilly, Wiley-Blackwell, 9600 Garsington Road, Oxford OX4 2DQ.
