Authors' contributions

An author must have made significant contributions to the design and execution and analysis and writing of the study, and must share responsibility for what is published. We ask the authors to specify their individual contributions and, if appropriate, we publish this information. As a rule, the number of authors should be limited to 6. The names of others who contributed in varying degree to the article should be mentioned under the heading "Acknowledgements". Clear statement that the study has been approved by an institutional ethics committee where appropriate.

(Please insert here the contributions each author made to the manuscript, e.g. literature search, figures, study design, data collection, data analysis, data interpretation, writing etc. If all authors contributed equally, please state this.)

Conflict of interest and funding

Authors are responsible for recognizing and disclosing financial and other conflicts of interest that might bias their work. Please disclose all financial support for the work and other financial or personal connections to the work. If reported research has been supported by pharmaceutical or other industries, this should be stated. When submitting a paper, the author should make a full statement to the editor about all submissions and previous reports that might be regarded as redundant or duplicate publication of the same or very similar work. Publication of abstracts is not considered to be duplicate publication.
