

Call for Proposals

“Review Of Corporate Governance” Issue

Guest edited by Brian Boyd and Igor Filatotchev

The Editors of Corporate Governance: An International Review (www.cgir.org) would like to invite authors to submit proposals for a special issue titled “Review of Corporate Governance.”

The goal of the special issue is to produce articles that summarize and integrate previously published research on a given topic, identify weaknesses and/or limitations in extant research, and create a roadmap or agenda for future research studies.

We would expect that the proposed papers serve as an important tool in consolidating and advancing our knowledge of international corporate governance, and that they will be between 6,000 to 10,000 words long.

The guest editors for this special issue are Brian Boyd, Arizona State University (briankboyd@asu.edu), and Igor Filatotchev, Cass Business School, City University London (igor.filatotchev@city.ac.uk).

To be considered for publication, a three-page (maximum) article proposal must be submitted to the guest editors via e-mail by February 29, 2008.

Proposals should include a clear statement as to the research question or issue, identification of the motivation and expected contribution of the study, and highlights of key points to be made. The guest editors will review the summaries and then invite authors of the most interesting proposals to submit complete papers.

Authors with approved proposals must submit completed manuscripts via Manuscript Central by August 29, 2008.

It is anticipated that this special issue will be published early in 2009, and that accepted manuscripts will be pre-published on-line at the end of 2008.
