SCOPE

Developing World Bioethics provides long needed case studies, teaching materials, news in brief, and legal backgrounds to bioethics scholars and students in developing and developed countries alike. This companion journal to Bioethics also features high-quality peer reviewed original articles. It is edited by well-known bioethicists who are working in developing countries, yet it will also be open to contributions and commentary from developed countries’ authors. The Editors, Professors Willem Landman and Udo Schüklenk, work in South Africa and the UK as directors or heads of ethics and bioethics institutes respectively.

Developing World Bioethics is the only journal in the field dedicated exclusively to developing countries’ bioethics issues. The journal is an essential resource for all those concerned about bioethical issues in the developing world. Members of Ethics Committees in developing countries will highly value a special section dedicated to their work.

CIRCULATION: 1,000 - academics and professionals concerned with ethical questions in medicine, philosophy, law, sociology, public policy education
