Natural Resources Forum
A United Nations Journal on Sustainable Development
Edited by Marcia M. Brewster

Blackwell Publishing would like to offer members of the International Society for Ecological Economics a FREE 60 day online trial to all available contents of Natural Resources Forum. Simply follow the instructions below to activate your trial. Access is through Synergy, Blackwell's online journal delivery system.

Natural Resources Forum focuses on international, multidisciplinary issues related to sustainable development and management of natural resources, mainly in developing countries. The journal seeks to examine subjects of current global concern and stimulate discussion in an effort to identify socio-economic policy options that promote sustainable development of water, energy, minerals and other natural resources. The journal reflects the increasing importance of social and economic policies in addressing natural resources challenges.
