PACIFIC ECONOMIC REVIEW
Notes on the assignment of copyright

1. It is the policy of Blackwell Publishers Ltd to acquire copyright in all the material published in the journal. Assignment assures that requests for permission to reproduce your article in printed or electronic media are handled systematically and in accordance with a general policy which is aware of the market and any relevant changes in international copyright legislation, and ensures the widest possible dissemination of the journals, while protecting against possible infringements of the rights of both the author and the publisher.
2. The author retains his or her moral rights in the article including the right to be identified as the author whenever and wherever the article is published, under the terms of the UK Copyright Designs and Patents Act 1988.
3. Despite assigning copyright the author retains the right to re-use the material in future collections of his/her own work without fee. Acknowledgements of prior publication in the journal and of the copyright-holder are the only requirements in such cases.
4. The author may make photocopies of, or distribute via electronic mail or fax, his/her own work for the author's own teaching and research purposes provided (a) that such copies are not resold and (b) that reference to the original source of publication and the name of the copyright holder is clearly stated on any copies made of the article.
5. The author's consent will be sought before granting permission to any third party to re-typeset and reprint material in commercially published edited volumes (which is assumed to have been given if we have not heard from him/her within thirty days of writing to the last known address). The author will receive 50% of all fees paid for such permissions. In the case of co-authorship, fees will be paid to the first-named author for subsequent redistribution as appropriate.
6. Should the copyright be held by someone other than the author, e.g. the author's employer, the Publishers require non-exclusive permission to administer requests from third parties. Such requests will be handled in accordance with Note 5 above, and all correspondence will be conducted with the author, who is presumed to be authorised by the copyright owner to deal with such questions on the owner's behalf. Any subsequent division of the 50% fee between the author(s) and owner is a matter for the two parties themselves to decide.
