CALL FOR PAPERS

25th Anniversary Editions of Public Money & Management

2005 will be the 25th anniversary of the journal. It is also likely to be an election year. The editors have decided to mark these events with a series of special editions that take stock of our public policy and management. The first issue (Vol. 25, No. 1, January 2005) will be devoted to the state of public management. The other editions in 2005 will be devoted to specific areas of service: Transport (April 2005); Health Policy (June 2005); Public Service Ethics (October 2005) and Criminal Justice.

We will be interested to receive articles that review the past 25 years or depict the current properties of public policy and management. Examples might be:

- The organizational structures and processes by which public service policies are formulated and implemented.
- Their financing and financial management.
- The nature of relationships between providers and those who benefit from public goods and services.
- Service performance standards and their evaluation, inspection, regulation and audit.
- The capacity of service practitioners.
- The contribution of management ideas and practices from the private sector and elsewhere.

Contributions for this issue should be received by the end of July 2004 to allow time for refereeing. Manuscripts should be sent to the Managing Editor, Michaela Lavender: c/o Sandra Harper: Public Money & Management, CIPFA, 3 Robert Street, London WC2N 6RL or by email to Michaela Lavender: micky@mickylavender.com

Vol. 25, No. 2 (April 2005): Transport. Guest Editor: Francis Terry
Authors are invited to submit articles on any policy or management topic relevant to contemporary transport problems in the UK. All articles, whether commissioned or not, will be subject to the usual refereeing procedure; authors should also bear in mind the general advice on submissions to Public Money & Management (see www.blackwellpublishing.com/pmam for details).

The special issue on transport will be edited by Francis Terry, who was formerly Editor-in-Chief of the journal and is a Visiting Fellow at the London School of Economics. The deadline for submissions is Friday 3 December 2004 and articles for consideration should be sent to: f.terry@lse.ac.uk

Vol. 25, No. 3 (June 2005): Health Policy and Management. Guest Editor: David Hunter
Professor Hunter’s issue will look at health policy and management in the National Health Service and its development over the past 25 years. Papers are invited that examine, for example:

- Patient and public involvement.
- Primary and secondary care.
- Public health, health promotion and inequalities.
- Relationship between clinical practice and management.
- Relationships between health and social care.
- Resources and capacity in health care.
- Training and development.
It is intended that authors of selected abstracts will be invited to present their papers at a one-day seminar at the Wolfson Institute at the University of Durham at the end 2004 or early 2005.

Prospective authors should send an abstract of between 700 and 1,000 words by 30 September 2004 to: Professor David Hunter, Professor of Health Policy and Management, Wolfson Research Institute, University of Durham, Queen’s Campus, Stockton on Tees TS17 6BH. Tel.: 0191 334 0362; email: d.j.hunter@durham.ac.uk

Vol. 25, No. 4 (August 2005): Criminal Justice. Guest Editor: Sandra Nutley

Authors are invited to submit articles on any policy or management topic relevant to contemporary criminal justice issues in the UK. All articles, whether commissioned or not, will be subject to the usual refereeing procedure. The special issue on criminal justice will be edited by Sandra Nutley, who was formerly Deputy Editor of the journal and is Professor of Public Policy and Management at University of St Andrews, and Barry Loveday, Reader in Criminal Justice at Portsmouth University.

Prospective authors should send an abstract of between 700 and 1,000 words by 30 November 2004 to smn@st-andrews.ac.uk

Vol. 25, No. 5 (October 2005): Public Service Ethics. Guest Editor: Alan Lawton

The editors intend to publish a collection of papers on public service ethics over the past 25 years. We are inviting papers that examine, for example:

- Impact on public service ethics of NPM.
- Growth in the ethics ‘industry’.
- The international ethics agenda.
- The regulation of conduct.
- Changing values, changing ethics.
- Doing ‘good’ while doing ‘well’.
- Individual conscience and organizational constraints.

Contributions from different academic disciplines are welcomed. Prospective authors should send an abstract of between 700 and 1,000 words by 25 May 2005 to Professor Alan Lawton, Professor of Organisational Ethics, Teesside Business School, University of Teesside, Middlesbrough TS1 3BA, UK. Tel.: 01642 342808; email: a.lawton@tees.ac.uk
