The above manuscript contains colour work. It is the policy of the journal that authors pay the full cost of colour reproduction. Please note that the publisher, Blackwell Science Ltd, is based in the UK and therefore required to add UK Tax to the cost of this service.

The cost of publishing one page of colour is £ 380 + UK Tax @ 17.5 % = £ 446.50 (UK pounds sterling)

The progress of your manuscript for publication may be delayed if we do not receive your agreement to pay the cost above for each page containing colour work. Please note that Blackwell Science endeavours to minimise costs to authors by sensible use of space; more than one colour figure may be placed per page in the published paper. If your colour figures are likely to require more than one page, the Production Editor at Blackwell Science will correspond with you regarding the number of pages and total cost of colour reproduction.

 Please complete this form and return it to the Editorial Office (address given below) with your revised manuscript ***

Please indicate your agreement to pay the charge for colour reproduction by entering a cross [X] in the box below:
