

Illustrations

1.1	Aboriginal inscription, Sydney (Steve Pile)	11
1.2a/b	Sidewalk dwellers, Johannesburg (Sophie Watson)	12
3.1	Reconstruction and original of cityscape painting at Çatal Hüyük (top: James Mellaart, Çatal Hüyük , 1967, plate 60; bottom: de la Croix, Tansey, and Kirkpatrick, Art through the Ages , 9th edn, New York: Harcourt Brace Jovanovich, 1991: 46, figure 2–8, landscape with volcanic eruption (?), detail of a copy of a wall painting from Level VII, Çatal Hüyük, ca. 6150 BC)	31
8.1	Heavenly Dinner (© Sygma-Keystone-Paris 1989)	78
8.2	Paris Street: Rainy Day , (Gustave Caillebotte, 1848–1894; oil on canvas, 212.2 × 276.2 cm; Charles H. and Mary F. S. Worcester Collection, 1964.336; Photograph copyright © 2000 The Art Institute of Chicago)	83
9.1	A poor kampung by the river edge in Yogyakarta (Harriot Beazley)	91
10.1	Hairdressing salon, South African township (Sophie Watson)	103
10.2	Chicago (Steve Pile)	108
13.1	Hypothetical monocentric and policentric urban structures (a: adapted from Bourne (1981); b: adapted from Cadwallader (1996))	144
13.2	The Southern California urban region	148
13.3	Edge cities in Los Angeles/Orange Counties and population change 1970–1990. (Standardized selected census tract comparison)	149
14.1	New York (Steve Pile)	156
17.1	The cosmopolite development model? An interpretation by the King's Cross Railwaylands Community Group of the London Regeneration Consortium's and British Rail proposal for King's Cross (from Michael Parkers, "Planning Prospects, Planning Education," in Regenerating Cities , 3 and 4, p. 23)	199
18.1	Hong Kong skyline (Sophie Watson)	208
18.2	Hong Kong island (Sophie Watson)	209

18.3	Cabramatta – Chinese-Vietnamese locality, Sydney (Steve Pile)	214
19.1	Havana and its neighborhoods	226
19.2	Historic Center of Havana	231
21.1	Aboriginal mural, Sydney (Steve Pile)	251
21.2	A tale of two cities? Cape Town (Sophie Watson)	252
26.1	Sydney gay and lesbian Mardi Gras parade (Steve Pile)	312
31.1	Street barber in Hanoi (Sophie Watson)	375
35.1	Christ's Entry into Brussels in 1889 (James Ensor, oil on canvas, 1888, 252.5 × 430.5 cm. The J. Paul Getty Museum, Los Angeles)	417
37.1	Art-stronaut Andrew Morrish has his daily headshave under the watchful eye of early morning shoppers (photo: Angela Wiley; from The Age , October 19, 1996)	442
37.2	In their “living room” the Urban Dream Capsule art-stronauts perform for a Festival audience (photo: Penny Stephens; from Sunday Age , November 3, 1996)	444
38.1	Location of the Lorraine Motel, site of the National Civil Rights Museum in Memphis, Tennessee © John Paul Jones III	449
38.2	King's assassination at the Lorraine (Photo by Joseph Louw/LIFE magazine © TIME Inc. used with permission.)	450
38.3	Historical marker describing the significance of the Lorraine Motel © John Paul Jones III	450
38.4	The National Civil Rights Museum. At left is the entrance to the museum © John Paul Jones III	451
38.5	The balcony outside the preserved wing of the motel. The automobiles reference the cars captured in Joseph Louw's photograph (Figure 38.2) © John Paul Jones III	452
38.6	Jacqueline “Jackie” Smith protests the Lorraine's transformation into a museum © John Paul Jones III	452
38.7	Jackie asks Memphis residents and visitors to boycott the museum © John Paul Jones III	453
38.8	The museum is a site for some of the city's cultural events © John Paul Jones III	455
38.9	The street between Jackie and the museum is regularly traversed by vehicles, such as this one, carrying tourists © John Paul Jones III	456
38.10	The sign records the number of consecutive days Jackie has protested. This photograph was taken in 1995. As of this writing, she is still there © John Paul Jones III	456
38.11	Memphis visitors inquire about the protest © John Paul Jones III	457
40.1	Yogyakarta, central Java: population 472,000. Malioboro street runs through the center of the city, from the railroad station towards the Alun-Alun (City Square) and Keraton (Sultan's Palace)	474
40.2	Shoe-shiners on Malioboro (Harriot Beazley)	475
40.3	City-square kids (Harriot Beazley)	476
40.4	Bambang's (aged 11) map of Yogyakarta: Focus is on the Malioboro and toilet area, as well as ngebong (Gerbong), by the train tracks; Sosrowijayan Street (where tourists and backpackers stay); Sopeng (the local market); and the Alun-Alun (City Square)	479

40.5	Sorio's (aged 10) map of Yogyakarta. Sorio has drawn the toilet area (top left of the map), the railroad station and railroad tracks. Malioboro street runs through the centre of the map. Sorio personalizes his account by drawing a train on to his map, as well as food stalls, a horse-drawn cart, and children playing under the tree outside the toilet on Malioboro (note that one of the children is carrying a tambourine for busking)	480
40.6	Agus's (aged 12) map of Yogyakarta. The letters and numbers relate to the numbered bays at the bus terminal, and the lines are the bus routes which branch out from the terminal and run through the city	480
40.7	Hari's (aged 15) map of Yogyakarta. As well as Shopping (the local market) and the WC (toilet) on Malioboro, the map shows the bus stops and bus routes on which Hari worked: Korem/ Tempat Ngamen (Korem/busking place, the numbers relate to the bus/route numbers); and Naik Bis. He also marks Cokro (the NGO Girli's open house); Lisa (a favourite food stall) and the Tempat anak tidur ("the place where the children sleep") on Malioboro; Sosro (the tourist street); the stasiun (railroad station) and Gerbong (depicted by a gerbong /railroad car), and Rel Kereta (train tracks). (Note: the writing on the map is my own as Hari cannot read or write, and he asked me to mark the map as he instructed.)	482
40.8	Edo's (aged 16) map of Yogyakarta. Edo has marked the toilet on Malioboro, Rumah Girli (NGO open house); the Alun-Alun (City Square); Shopping (local market); kantor polisi (police station); Bioskop Permata (a cinema); two prapatans (traffic light intersections); the Taman (City Park); the THR (the People's Entertainment Park); and the stasiun (railroad station). Note the prominence of the Rel Kereta Api , "the railroad tracks" running through the city	483
41.1	The Internet interface for De Digitale Stadt , Amsterdam, one of the best-known examples of a "grounded" virtual city which uses the urban metaphor of "town squares" to organize its services (at http://www.dds.nl/)	491
41.2	Cybertown, a "non-grounded" virtual city (at http://www.cybertown.com)	491
41.3	"Ideal types" of virtual city	495
41.4	City-related Internet sites in the EU, 1997	496
41.5	Distribution of virtual city types in the EU by nation, 1997	497
41.6	The Iperbole virtual city, Bologna, an example of an Italian "holistic" virtual city (at http://www.nettuno.it/bologna/MappaWelcome.html)	498
41.7	Relationships between originating institution and type of virtual city in Italy and the EU	499
43.1	The "uniplex" city	518
43.2	Fitting development projects into the "spatial jigsaw"	521
43.3	Fitting development projects into the "institutional jigsaw"	525
43.4	The "multiplex" city	526

44.1	Heron Quay – London’s Docklands (Steve Pile)	537
52.1	A reintegrating city? Racial zoning in Durban under apartheid, and recent developments	620
52.2	Centrally located informal settlements in Cato Manor, and, adjacent, higher-income areas (copyright © Tony Smith Photography)	621
52.3	The Cato Manor Development Project: one of the few opportunities for urban integration (copyright © Tony Smith Photography)	622